DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: On page 16, line 16 " Fig 1a" should be --Fig 1A--.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 2 is objected to because of the following informalities: Sentences are confusing. The following is recommended: including a phase-difference accumulator and a phase-difference transformer connected said phase-difference comparator and said sigma-delta modulator.

3. Claim 5 is objected to because of the following informalities: on last line "Signal-delta modulator" should be "sigma-delta modulator". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C 103(a) as being unpatentable over Co et al. ('750) in view of Yamaji et.al. ('827).

Regarding to claim 1, Co et al. disclose a multiphase clock generator (Fig 3, 32) producing n phases of a clock being m-times the given signal, wherein a multiplexer (Fig 3, 30) connects to multiphase clock generator, and a phase comparator (Fig3, 15) compares the phase difference. However, Co et al. failed to teach a sigma-delta modulator to control the multiplexer. Instead, Co et al. teach an up/down counter (Fig 3, 28) to control the multiplexer. On the other hand, Yamaji et.al. teach sigma-delta modulator (Fig 3, 13 and 14) to control a selector (Fig 3, 12), which select one output from its four inputs signals. In other words, this selector works as a multiplexer as the present application. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to substitute Co et al.'s up/down counter with Yamaji et.al.'s sigma-delta modulator, since sigma-delta modulator produce linearity, reduce power consumption, reduce circuit size, increase digital signal process rate with higher accuracy, detected phase difference, and is a well-known technique in amplitude and phase modulation.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 3,4,6-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
